LOW MORTALITY ERA IS AT HAND

BUREAU OF CENSUS DISCOVERS THIS FACT TRUE.

DISTINCT EPOCH REACHED

Remarkable Fact Made Public Through the Figures Obtainable.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Washington, D. C., Oct. 25.—"The civilized world has indeed arrived at an era of low mortality."

This conclusion is stated in Census Bureau Bulletin, 104, on mortality statistics for 1908, prepared by Dr. C. W. L. Wilbur, chief statistician for vital statistics under Director Secord, who has transmitted it to Secretary Nagel of the department of commerce and labor.

The death rate of the registration states in 1908 was 15.5 per 1,000 of population, which was slightly lower than that for the entire registration area, 16.4 per 1,000, and it is the lowest on record. Dr. Wilbur states it is probably the lowest death rate that has ever occurred in the United States.

The death rate of the rural portions of these states was still lower, being only 14 per 1,000, while that of the urban population was 16.5 per 1,000; the latter including all cities having a population of 8,000 or more inhabitants in 1900, and being, as usual, somewhat greater than the rural rate. Such rates would have seemed quite out of the question a few years ago.

The death rate of England and Wales for 1908 was only 14.7 per 1,000 of population, and of London for the same year, 15.8 per 1,000. For each year since 1903 the death rate of England and Wales has been less than 16 per 1,000, with the exception of the year 1904 for which year it was 16.2 per 1,000, while no rate has so far been recorded for any previous years of registration.

The early publication of the data relating to the mortality of the year 1908 for the registration area of the United States was only made possible by the increased promptness of the returns from the state and city offices, most of which now make monthly reports.

The registration area embraces the registration states and separate registration cities in non-registration states accepted by the census bureau as having approximately complete registration of deaths based upon the requirements of compulsory burial permits. For the year 1908, the registration states were: California, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Indiana, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Hampshire, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Vermont, Washington and Wisconsin.

The District of Columbia and seventy-four registration cities in non-registration states, together with the registration states mentioned, made up the aggregate registration area for 1908, whose total estimated population for the year was 45,028,767, or over one half (51.8 per cent) of the total estimated population of the continental United States, which was 86,874,990. The addition of Ohio for the year 1909 has still further increased the percentage of the population reporting to 55.2 per cent, and other areas may be included for the calendar year 1910, for which direct comparisons of the mortality statistics can be made with the population enumerated by the thirteenth census.

The total number of deaths returned for the year 1908 from the aggregate registration was 691,574. For the preceding year, 1907, the number of deaths was 687,034, or only 4,540 less than the 1908 returns, although the registration area for 1908 was increased by Washington and Wisconsin. The year 1908 was one of remarkable low mortality throughout the United States so far as can be determined from the available registration records and was marked by a general absence of severe epidemics and of unusual mortality from other causes.

"Because contributed" a slightly larger proportion of the deaths in 1908 than they did in 1907, but the actual number of deaths of males registered for 1908 was less than for 1907. The percentage of males was 51.3, and of females 48.7. The figures for age periods show a somewhat increased per cent of deaths of infants under 1 year for 1908, but the ratios for 1 to 4 are identical for 1907 and 1908. A close agreement appears in the subsequent five year periods, although there was a slightly more favorable showing for 1908 for the age periods from 15 to 49 years.

Nearly one fifth of all the deaths that occurred were those of infants under one year of age and over one-fourth of all children less than five years of age.

For both 1907 and 1908, 93.3 per cent of all deaths were those of white persons, which shows the unequal division of the registration area in this respect. Maryland is the only registration state with a considerable proportion (23.6 per cent) of colored population.

Nearly one-fourth of all deaths registered were those of persons born outside of the United States. The states having the largest proportion of native-born Americans of native stock are, Dr. Wilbur states, the ones in which it is the most difficult to secure the passage of effective registration laws. Therefore, the actual mortality of Americans of native parentage is not fully represented in the registration area, although over two-thirds of the deaths registered were of native born persons and one-third were of native born with native parents.

It appears that the month of maximum mortality in 1908 was January, with 67,763 deaths and that of minimum mortality was June with 45,701 deaths.

The death rates of the individual registration states vary for the year 1908 from 18.4 for California to 10.1 for South Dakota. Dr. Wilbur points out that the total variation is less than that among the great towns of England and that the range of mortality is not excessive.

With the exception of South Dakota all the registration states for which data are presented for more than a single year, show lower rates for 1908 than 1907, and in several instances the rates for 1908 were the lowest on record, at least since fairly accurate registration has been in effect. For Massachusetts a comparison of the rates given in the state reports since 1851 shows that, with the single exception of the rate (16.3) in 1904, the rate (16.5) in 1908 is the lowest.

Then follow comparisons of the death rates of the cities of the United States with 100,000 population or over in 1900. Of the thirty-five cities considered, a decreased death rate was shown in 1908 in all but five instances. The remainder of the bulletin is devoted to the consideration of causes of death, of occupations in relation to mortality, and contains the official English translation of the revised list of causes of death arranged for use in mortality tables by international agreement at the second decennial revision in Paris last July.

CHALONER SUES TO RECOVER HIS ESTATE

New York Lawyer Adjudged Inane By N. Y. Courts and Found Sane By Doctors, Wants Property Back

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Charlottesville, Ga., Oct. 25.—The noted case of John Armstrong Chaloner, formerly Chaloner, who is fighting in the courts to recover the estate he declares was illegally taken from him, was called for trial today. Much interest is manifested in the trial, as it is asserted that the names of persons figuring prominently in New York society will be drawn into the controversy.

Mr. Chaloner belongs to a family that has long been prominent in New York and Virginia. His mother was a granddaughter of John Jacob Astor, and his father is Lewis Stuyvesant Chaloner, former lieutenant governor of New York, ex-congressman William Astor Chaloner, and Whitford Chaloner.

In 1883 John Armstrong Chaloner, married Anne Rivers, now the Princess Troubetzkoy, author of "The Quaker or the Devil," a book of which he was said to be the hero. They were married in 1883, and getting a Dakota divorce against him.

Not long after he was declared insane by the courts of New York. As a result he was committed to Bloomingdale asylum, and his estate, which came to him by inheritance chiefly, was administered in his behalf by Thomas T. Sherman, who was appointed by the court. On Thanksgiving night, 1899, Chaloner escaped from the asylum. The next day he entered a private sanitarium in Philadelphia, and explained to the physician his situation. He asked that his identity be kept secret, and he remained there for three months, when the doctors assured them he was entirely sane. Later he went to Lynchburg, Va., and remained there for six months under an assumed name. Then he entered it again there, asking that his property in New York and Virginia be restored to him, and that his mental condition be passed on. After a long trial the courts of Virginia held that he was sane and could come and go as he pleased.

Not so in New York, however. Reported efforts on his part to obtain a decree saying he is sane in New York, as he is in Virginia have failed. A year ago he went to the United States Supreme Court in an unsuccessful effort to have that tribunal issue him a safe conduct under which he might go to New York and conduct his fight in person. In all of his court fights Chaloner, who is a lawyer, has supervised the details of the litigation.

BREWERY'S POWER PLANT BLEW UP WITH HEAVY LOSS

Pabst Brewing Company Has Bad Explosion Early This Morning—One Man Missing.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 25.—Shortly after four this morning the power plant of the Pabst Brewing Company, located on West 10th street, near Cold Spring and Chestnut streets, blew up, causing a loss of $250,000 and entirely demolishing the big structure, which was forty by two hundred feet, scattering the debris over a large space of ground and streets and moving an adjoining structure four feet from its foundation. P. Stern, an employee in the engine room, is missing, and thought dead, and two other employees, George Cotterill and Joseph Johnson, are at the hospital suffering from severe injuries. The cause of the explosion is not known, but it is thought was caused by the bursting of an eighteen-inch steam pipe. The boilers of the plant were inspected October 16th and reported all right and but four of them are wrecked. Each had a capacity of four hundred horse-power. The shock from the explosion was felt for many blocks and persons were thrown from their beds and houses swayed on their foundations. Until the plant is rebuilt the brewery will be operated by electricity furnished by the local company.

STEGALL CASE HAS ITS HEARING TODAY

U. S. Court Will Determine Whether International Revenue Ganger Shall Be Tried For Contempt.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 25.—The hearing in the now famous case of Charles E. Stegall, a ganger in the employ of the United States department of internal revenue, was resumed today in the United States court. The case, it will be remembered, evoked a sharp conflict between the state and federal courts, the Dade county superior court holding Stegall in contempt because he declined to answer before the grand jury a question as to what was being manufactured at the Cigarette distillery. The United States authorities, on the other hand, upheld the grand jury's stand that his oath and bond forbade him to divulge the details of the information.

The issue is regarded as one of great importance, especially in prohibition states or localities. The decision is awaited with interest as it will afford a precedent for state courts in the spirit of alleged violations of the prohibition law. And, furthermore, it will become a precedent in the matter of state or county interference with United States revenue officials.

FINE MEETINGS OF S. S. INSTITUTE AT METHODIST CHURCH

Sessions of Sabbath School Workers
Most Interesting and Profitable—
Union Meeting Last Evening.

The work of the Sunday School Institute and Rally being held at the Methodist church in this city was continued today with interesting discussions this morning and afternoon.
The sessions will close tonight. About forty delegates from various churches in the Janesville district of the church have been present at the services and a great amount of work has been accomplished.

Many prominent Sunday School workers—including Dr. Edgar Blake, assistant secretary of the Methodist Sunday school board of the Methodist church, of Chicago; Miss Frances Brayton of Appleton; Grace M. Longfellow of Milwaukee; F. H. Brigham of Wauwatosa; Rev. S. H. Anderson of Oshkosh; and F. H. Woodcock of Whitewater—have addressed the meetings and taken a helpful part in the work. Prof.
Kent of Yale gave a fine talk at the meeting last evening.

Tonight two especially fine speakers will address the institute. Rev.
S. H. Anderson of Oshkosh will talk on "The Wisconsin Conference—An Opportunity," and Rev. Edgar Blake will speak of "Building Bigger Schools."

Five Protestant churches were represented by their pastors at the union meeting held at the Methodist church last evening, and members of other churches were there, and the church was filled to its capacity. Professor Kent of Yale and Dr. Blake of Chicago delivered two splendid addresses.
Prof. Kent on "Denominational Cooperation" and Dr. Blake on "The Boy Scout Movement."

Prof. Kent urged the churches to work together and advocated two o'clock as the time for holding the Sunday school services. Dr. Blake made a strong plea for the boy scout movement, showing that spiritual results were achieved in that way. He recommended a gymnasium in connection with the church.

WHITEWATER HIGHS DECISIVELY BEATEN

Janesville High School Football Team
Scored First Victory, Beating
Visitors 33 to 0.

Janesville high school football team scored its first victory this season by beating the Whitewater eleven in the game Saturday afternoon at Athletic park, 33 to 0. The previous contests have resulted in three defeats and one tie, and the boys felt that in order to make a showing at all this season they must win, and went into the game with that determination.
Consequently they put up a star game
from start to finish and Whitewater had but few chances to score. Every play that the Janesville boys made was skillfully accomplished and their interference was almost invincible.
In the second half, the substitutes were put in and given a chance. Ryan took William's place as fullback, Mott displaced Palmer as right guard and Williams was put in the line in place of Wilkinson at left tackle. McCarthy was given first chance as substitute quarterback for Brown and played an excellent game. Korst, Hazen and Merrill each made touchdowns in the second half. The line-up:

Whitewater: Bowers, lb; O'Connor, lf; Corey, lg; Gunning, cf; Fuller, rg; Dutcher, rf; Dorr and Summers, re;
Cooper, qb; Lottinwell, rfb; Ridge, lfb; Johnson, fb.

Janesville: Hazen, lb; Wilkinson, lf; Brown, lg; McCarthy, cf; Fuller, rg; Sullivan, rf; Grooms and McCarthy, qb; Korst, rfb; Merrill, lfb; Williams and Ryan, fb.

The length of the halves were twenty-five and twenty minutes. Prof.
Knudson of the high school and Launbury were the officials. Touchdowns were made by William (2), Sullivan, Merrill, Korst and Hazen.

by Dr. Cook and Lieutenant Peary, and the use of columns of newspaper space to discuss as to who found the North Pole, the Men's club of the opening meeting of the winter and the program arranged by the committee in charge promises to be an interesting one. Dinner will be served at 6:30 by the members of the Helpful Circle and following the repast

there will be talks on "The North Pole," the general topic of the evening.

E. C. Bailey and W. E. Clinton have had charge of the arrangements, and
Mr. Humphrey will act as toastmaster.

SHOOT'S YOUNG WIFE, THEN SELF Woman Fatally Wounded, Man Dead —Domestic Trouble Is Cause.

Washington, Oct. 25.—Muraged because his chorus girl wife preferred a life on the stage to his companionship, William H. Short of New York city, in the Union station in Washington, shot and perhaps fatally wounded her and then sent a bullet crashing through his temple. He died an hour later.

Mrs. Short had just alighted from a cab, which was also occupied by her husband and her girl friend, and was hurrying to catch a train, when Short, without warning, whipped a revolver from his pocket and fired three bullets into his wife's back.

ASSAULTS GIRL; JAIL GUARDED. There Is Possibility of a Lynching at Anderson, Ind.

Washington, Ind., Oct. 25.—John Eagle, 31 years old, attacked and ravished Blanche Wins, aged 11, daughter of A. C. Wins, assistant cashier of the Washington National bank, in a thick forest at the edge of the city, and the girl is now in a critical condition. Eagle was arrested by a sheriff and posse, and a great crowd is surging the streets with a possibility of a lynching in sight. The officers deny that an arrest has been made, but a guard surrounds the jail and no explanation is given for its presence. The children were gathering nuts when Eagle rushed out and seized the girl, dragging her into the thicket. Eagle was shouting the officers who wanted him for burglary. He was arrested several months ago on a similar charge.

JEFF'S FATHER SAYS NO FIGHT. Heavyweight Pugilist's Father Assests Son Will Never Fight a Negro.

Cannonsburg, Pa., Oct. 25.—That James J. Jeffries and Jack Johnson will never meet in the battle arena is indicated by an interview with Rev. J. H. Jeffries, father of the undefeated heavyweight pugilist, who is visiting friends here.

When asked as to whether his son would fight Jack Johnson, the negro heavyweight champion, in the near future, Mr. Jeffries is said to have stated:

Not only is Janeville to hear the "Azucena," not only shows her remarkable voice to the best advantage, but gives one of the most realistic character impersonations on the operatic stage. Miss Julia Florence, just season with Oscar Hammerstein, will be heard in her favorite role, "Leonora." The magnificent "Avril Chorus" and the "Albionettes" add in making "Il Trovatore" the most popular of operas. Manager Myers of the Myers theatre is to be congratulated upon securing this famous organization for Janeville. The company throughout the season has played to capacity houses.

"My son will never fight a negro, and I don't think he will fight any other person again during his life."

MONETARY DEBATE; FOWLER'S LETTER

CONGRESSMAN CHALLENGES SENATOR TO DEBATE THE CENTRAL BANK QUESTION.

FOWLER AGAINST ALDRICH

New Jersey Man, Declares That Scheme Is Not Wanted by People. That It Will Not Accomplish Necessary Reform.

Elizabeth, N. J., Oct. 25.—In an open letter addressed to Senator Nelson W. Aldrich, chairman of the monetary commission created by congress, Congressman Charles N. Fowler of New Jersey, former chairman of the house committee on banking and currency, issues a challenge to the Rhode Island senator for a joint debate on the subject of a central bank.

In the letter Mr. Fowler says he is opposed to the establishment of a central bank, under existing conditions, because he believes, with it would come a most discouraging and unheartening favoritism and the ultimate destruction of our purely individual and independent form of banking. The letter in part follows:

"Just before you started for Europe in August, it was stated in the press of the country that as a result of a meeting of the monetary commission, of which you are chairman, a central bank was to be advocated by your commission, and that upon your return from Europe you would proceed to visit various cities in different sections of the country, with a view of instructing the people upon our financial and currency needs and recommending as a 'cure-all' a central bank.

Central Bank Advocated.
"After your departure there was an evidently inspired and well organized propaganda in favor of a central bank, conceived and carried on for the purpose of preparing the way for your home-coming, and your arrangement to 'saw around the circle,' and initiate into the mysteries of your central bank plan.

"Inasmuch as I am convinced that the one thing above all others that this country does not want is a central bank, because it will not effect nor accomplish the necessary reforms, but, in the end, will make a bad condition immeasurably worse; therefore—in order that the American people (who I know will decide this most important question now pending before them for consideration and determination, correctly, as they did that of the gold standard, if only they be given an opportunity of having both sides of it fully presented and thoroughly discussed) may be informed as early as possible—I now challenge you to a joint debate upon the following propositions:

"1. A central bank will not effect nor accomplish the necessary reforms of our financial and currency; is unsuited to our conditions; will accentuate many of our present evils and precipitate and develop other evils of a most serious nature.

"2. Our financial and currency problems must be solved upon economic lines of an entirely different character.

Plan Cannot Be Success.

"I assert that you cannot successfully and beneficially superimpose a monarchical form of banking upon nearly 25,000 individual, independent, free banking institutions which have grown up and developed in harmony with the principles of our republican form of government and are themselves republican in form and character."

WALSH'S LAST DAY OF GRACE.

Former Banker Must Pay Clearing House Note To-Day.

Chicago, Oct. 25.—John R. Walsh's business affairs are expected to reach a crisis to-day. The sale or the foreclosure of his railroad and quarry properties will be determined at a conference, according to his legal advisor and the attorney of his debtors. Unless some agreement for a sale is reached to-day, foreclosure proceedings will be started at once by the Clearing House association to collect the note for $7,121,887, on which the interest of $71,000 is now past due. This is the last day of grace given by the holders of the note.

Meantime Walsh's attorneys are preparing to fight the efforts of United States District Attorney Sims to have the $50,000 bond of Walsh canceled by the appellate court and to have Walsh committed to jail pending proceedings for a writ of certiorari before the United States supreme court.

At the conference to-day will be Eugene Zimmerman, former dominating factor in the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton, and other Ohio railroads. Besides Mr. Zimmerman it was rumored that several other railroad men would arrive in Chicago to aid in untangling the Walsh financial puzzle.

Building Foreman Killed.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 25.—The cornice over the west portico of the west wing of the new capitol building fell 600. Daniel Logan of Chicago, foreman for the contractors, fell with the cornice a distance of 70 feet and was instantly killed.

Socialists Win Seat in Germany.
Coburg, Germany, Oct. 25.—The socialists won another seat in the reichstag at the elections in this city, which had been regarded as a stronghold of the national liberals.

ZELAYA'S MEN LOSE FIRST BATTLE OF THE REVOLUTION

Hundred Regulars Are Killed—Guns Captured—Another Rebel Band Captures Atlantic Port.

Bluefields, Nicaragua, Oct. 25.—The first important battle of the Nicaraguan revolution has been won by the revolutionists. An engagement took place at a point below Boca San Carlos, on the San Juan river, between Gen. Chamorro's forces and 1,000 of President Zelaya's troops, and the former won a decisive victory. The government lost 100 men killed and about 200 wounded, while the losses to Chamorro's troops were slight. The insurgents captured two Krupp siege guns and 400 rifles. This news was brought here by the tug Blanco, from Greytown.

This defeat for President Zelaya will doubtless have a deterrent effect on recruiting for the government service at Managua and is likely also to bring additional reinforcements to the standards of the insurgents. Gen. Chamorro is now advancing slowly. The steamer Yulu, belonging to the Emery Company, has reached here with the details of the capture by the revolutionists of Cape Gracias a Dios. This port was easily taken, not more than five or six men being killed and a small number wounded. This gives the revolutionists control of the entire Atlantic coast.

DRY FARMING CONGRESS MEETS.

Biggest Exposition of Its Kind Ever Held—Immense Crowd Present.

Billings, Mont., Oct. 25.—The playing of "America" by a band on the steps of Exposition hall this afternoon signified the opening of the fourth and biggest dry farming exposition and congress. An immense crowd was present at the ceremony, and cheered the addresses by Gov. Edwin L. Norris, W. J. Rutherford, deputy commissioner of agriculture of Illinois, S. B. Hildreth, United States Senator from Montana, H. L. Moody of Spokane, James J. Hill of St. Paul, and H. B. Moss, who acted as master of ceremonies.

The convention itself really opens tomorrow morning, and will be called to order by Frank C. Bowman of Idaho Falls, Idaho, chairman of the international executive committee. Addresses of welcome will be made by P. B. Moss, Mayor Thompson, President W. A. Selvig of the local chamber of commerce and Gov. Norris. Responses will be made by Dr. John A. Whitson, vice-president of the congress, and Dr. Laurence Banta-Never, the Brazilian vice-president of the congress. James J. Hill will then speak on "The Development of the West."

What You Think

about dentistry is probably not at all what it really is. The rapid advancement in scientific practice has made the old, foolish, painful methods of treating and extracting teeth only an unpleasant memory.

I am making new, firm friends daily who are enthusiastic over my work because I employ modern, scientific methods and because my office is provided with the latest equipment for doing the work expeditiously and without pain.

It is a fact that I extract teeth painlessly.

WILL CITIZENS SIGN PETITION FOR THE CHANGE?

START IS MADE FOR RULE BY COMMISSION FOR JANESVILLE.

IT IS GENERALLY APPROVED

Business Men See the Benefits That Can Be Derived From Change From Present System.

Janessville will be the first city in the state to bring up for a vote the question of whether there shall be a change in the form of city government, their old charter given up and the newer form of rule by commission adopted.

This can be accomplished by a call of 550 citizens, twenty-five per cent of the last municipal election, which was a total of 2,200 voters, asking the council to call a special election for this purpose. With this and in view of the election of petitions being this morning and have been very liberally signed by citizens generally regardless of party affiliations. The petition which the voters are being asked to sign, reads as follows: To the Mayor of the City of Janesville:

The undersigned, electors of the city of Janesville, equal in number to twenty-five per centum of the voters cast for all candidates for mayor at the last preceding city election, respectfully petition the council of reorganization as a city under Chapter 448 of the laws of 1909, to be submitted to the electors of said city of Janesville at a special election to be held at a time specified therein and within two months from the filing hereof.

THEATRE MEASURE IS NON-EFFECTIVE

Ordinance Regulating Moving Picture Shows Altered After First Reading—Council Meets Tonight.

That the five cent theatre ordinance which was passed at the last regular meeting of the common council is null and void and will have to be passed over again is a fact which will be gently broken to the city fathers this evening. It appears that the measure was altered considerably after it had been given its first and second reading and inasmuch as the changes were not embodied in an amendment, the third reading and passage failed to make any part of the regulation effective. Plans for the improvements on Olive street, from Madison to Washington street, and a report from the street assessment committee accepting the sewer work in District No. 4, are anticipated. The latter committee may also report on the Madison and 11th street improvement work.

Women of State Are Aroused by Plans to Place Biology Building on Observatory Hill.

That the women throughout the state want to impress upon the members of the Board of University Regents that their judgment in despoiling the beautiful Observatory hill by placing the proposed biology building on the lake side of the structure was in evidence today when a delegation of Madison and Milwaukee ladies came to Janesville to confer with the regents.

The party came by train from Madison, arriving here at one o'clock and returned this afternoon. Mrs. Edward M. Fuller, Mrs. Lucius Fairchild, Mrs. P. F. Bowman of Madison, and Miss Mary L. Atwood of Milwaukee comprised the delegation and they spent some time in trying to convince Mr. Norcross that the women from all parts of the state demanded that the regents reconsider their plan to erect the building where planned claiming it would destroy the beauty of the most sightly view in Madison.

No other dealer, except those who sell our special mixtures, dare make such an offer. The first year we started in business (four years ago), we introduced and sold the first special mixtures for poultry ever sold in the city. We bought the best that Chicago or St. Louis produced, but we soon found they were not good enough and did not suit our trade. Our patrons did not want to pay two or three cents per pound for dirt, weed seed, shell and grit. The second year we commenced the manufacture of our own foods. How well we have succeeded with them is shown by the fact that during the last year ending Oct. 1st our total sales amounted to over one hundred and ten tons. Far more than all the other dealers in the city sold of all other brands combined.

Should not this be a sufficient guarantee that you are safe in giving our special poultry foods the preference?

By WALDEN FAWCETT.

Washington—The great conference of capital and labor at Washington October 23 inaugurates a season of missionary work on behalf of conciliation and arbitration which it is hoped will bring American employing and industrial interests closer together than they have ever heretofore been in the history of the republic. The moving spirit in this crusade for an era of harmony and good feeling is the Foundation for Industrial Peace, the institution founded by former President Roosevelt with the $40,000 which he received in the form of the Nobel peace prize, donated as the nucleus of a permanent endowment fund. Co-operating with the foundation, however, are the various state boards of arbitration throughout the country and influential organizations of national scope such as the National Civic Federation.

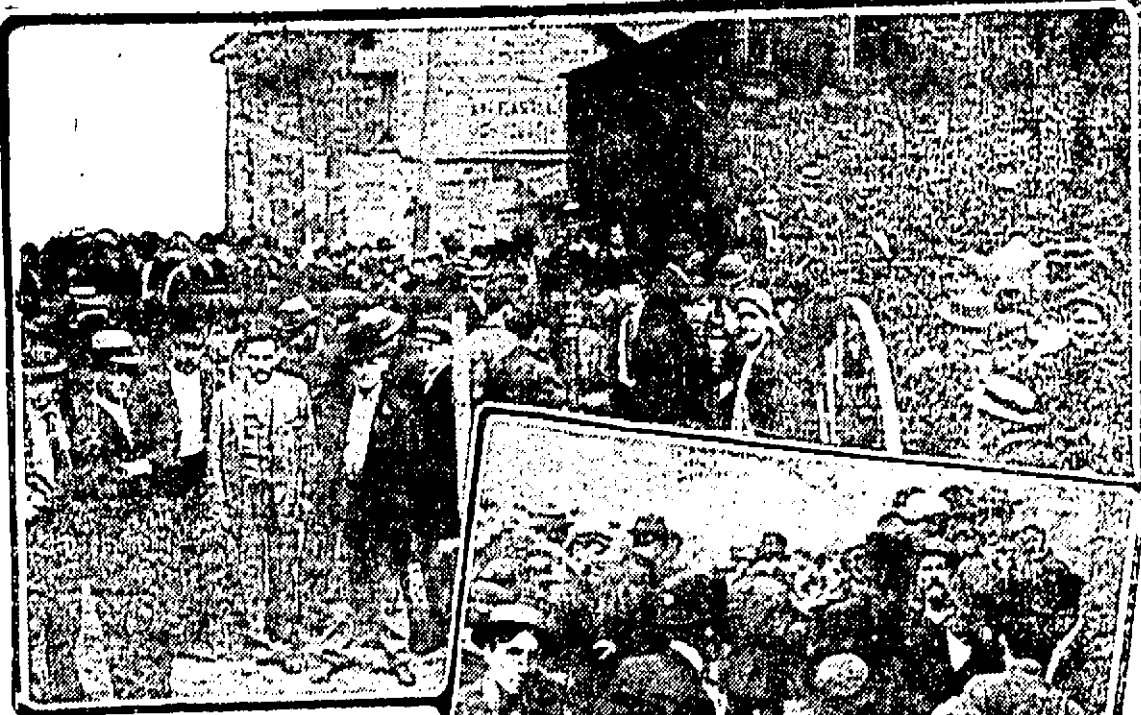

Chief Justice Fuller of the United States supreme court presides over this significant gathering of capital, labor, government officials and labor leaders and Theodore L. Wood, chief clerk of the department of commerce and labor, acts in the capacity of secretary and makes all arrangements for the gathering. Indeed, to Mr. Wood, who is one of the youngest men holding a responsible position under the federal government belongs much of the credit for the recent infusion of life into the movement for a better understanding between commercial and industrial interests. After Roosevelt retired from office even the activities of the Foundation for the Promotion of Industrial Peace were allowed to lag somewhat, but lately there has been a revival of interest and a co-operative campaign has now been mapped out that it is believed will produce tangible results.

A potent factor with Mr. Wood in this drawing together of the leading representatives of capital and labor is John Mitchell, who, since he resigned the presidency of the mine union has been devoting all his time to this cause. Supporting him actively in the movement which finds expression in the current conference are Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor and Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. Another conspicuous figure is Ralph M. Easley, general secretary of the National Civic Federation. The employers are represented by such men as Marcus M. Marks, the New York manufacturer; Marvin Hughitt, president of the Chicago & Northwestern railroad. As disinterested workers in behalf of the much-desired mutual understanding such men as Seth Low of New York and Archibald Ireland will lend their aid, while the national government is taking a hand through Commissioner of Labor Neill, Commissioner of Immigration Kiefe, (former national labor leader) and Secretary of the Department of Commerce and Labor and Wilson of the Department of Agriculture. The present conference will be followed by an even more important one in January, 1910, where President Taft will speak and the arrangements for which are in the hands of Messrs. Hammond, Mitchell, Gompers and Easley.

TORTURED BY ULCERS!

August 25, 1906.
Gentlemen:—For two years I suffered with Eczema on hands, feet and legs, and could not get a pair of shoes on, as my feet and legs were completely covered with ulcers. Last April I concluded to go to the hospital, and on my way fortunately met a friend who was cured by your remedy, and he urged me to go and see you, which I did. I bought one set of your remedy, which gave me instant relief, and after using five sets was completely cured. I state these facts trusting they may come under the notice of some one similarly afflicted, as from experience I know that there is no other remedy to cure this dreadful disease. J. Action of Lightning.
Lightning makes trees explode like overcharged boilers. The flames of the lightning does not burn them up, nor does the electric flash split them like an ax. The bolt flows through into all the damp interstices of the trunk and into the hollows under its bark. All the moisture at once is turned into steam, which by its immediate explosion rips open the tree. For centuries this simple theory puzzled scientists, but they have got it right at last.

By RUTH CAMERON

"I CANNOT quite make up my mind whether I love him or not," a girl writes me.

"Sometimes I think I do and then I'm sure I don't. I must decide. Can't you tell me how to find out?"

"If the one who has the best chance to judge, the girl herself, does not know, no one can help her," perhaps you say.

"That's what I said at first and then I remembered that one may be too close to a thing to see it clearly. So I am going to say what I can to her and any other of my girls—if there be any others—who are in the same quandary.

In the first place I should be inclined to say that if you don't know whether you love anyone or not that is a pretty good sign that you don't.

And yet that's not inevitably true, for I have known cases where love crept into a heart so very quietly, so very unobtrusively, that the keeper of the gate did not even know he had passed by. And once I knew a case where he wasn't found at all until too late, and that was very sad, so I shouldn't dare give that as a test.

No test is universal, anyway. Love is a very different thing with different people. The most I can do is offer a few suggestions and observations and dreamings on the subject that may or may not be worth anything.

If you love a man enough to marry him, I think it ought to seem to you as if the sun came out when he entered the room and went under a cloud when he left it.

I don't mean just figuratively but actually.

"I've often found myself, after he went, wondering if it were clouding up outside because the room seemed so dark," said one of my girls who was very much in love.

If you love a man enough to marry him I think you ought to miss him when he leaves you even for a few minutes.

"Why, when Jimmie and I are going off anywhere and he puts me on the train and goes to buy the tickets, the five minutes he's gone seems a perfect age," says my engaged friend.

If you love a man enough to marry him I think you ought to be entirely unable to imagine a future without him.

"Don't get married unless you think you can't live unless you do," is the advice of one young matron.

Be sure that it is not his love of you that you care for.

"The man falls in love with the woman. The woman falls in love with the man's love of her," said a clever epigram maker once.

That is true far too often but the marriage that follows such love is not the highest kind of marriage.

If you think it is possible that that is the case with you, try to imagine how you would feel if you knew he did not care anything about you, and if you cannot say, or could not help caring just as much for him even then, you probably do not love him.

Do you remember the little boy in our old readers who misread the word in the spelling match on purpose because the little girl had misread it and he didn't want to go above her, "because, you know, I love you?"

That's a mighty good test.

Are you more anxious for his success than your own, prouder of his achievements than your own? If you were placed in competition with him would you be really happy to see him win out?

If you would, you need no further test.

FADS AND FASHIONS.

New York, Oct. 25.—Some fashion authorities say that notwithstanding the remote possibility that a tight-fitting basque-shaped coat will be fastidious French makers, vored by some daring French makers, and the probability that the closed-tail three-quarter length model will meet with deserved success as a part of the reliable tailor-made, we may safely bank on the continuance of the longer separate coat. Indeed, many of the coat models already shown suggest a consideration of last year's most comfortable outdoor wraps. We have again the double-breasted garment, showing a fair degree of room inside, notwithstanding a proclamation that all coats are to be fitted. We have the long, straight dart from shoulder to hem, also shawl collars and the very low fastenings on ample coats with the same close sleeves seen last year.

In anticipation of the opening of the operatic season many gorgeous capes and cloaks have arrived from Paris and the American dressmakers are also showing many the garments of that character, built after Paris models. The craze for airy stuffs of all sorts has brought with it a vogue for transparent evening wraps which seem curiously inappropriate for winter wear. These thin wraps, of course, are usually provided with warm linings, but the effect must suggest fragility and gauziness or the wrap is a failure.

The most notable feature of Paris at a recent exhibition of Paris evening costumes was a cloak of coarse gray net, embroidered, or rather, darned, with silver thread, and falling in full, straight folds from neck to hem. The silver-darned net was hung over silver tissue and all around the edge of the cloak went a border of gray chinchilla fur. Inside was a lining of rose pink satin, veiled with gray chiffon. The effect of this wrap was ethereally delicate, but the four layers of fabric really offered substantial protection from the cold.

Another beautiful lace wrap was of alienation lace, colored a metallic pink silk. There was a shaped turn-over collar on this cape, made of silver gray satin, embroidered with pink beads, and holding the collar together in front was a clasp formed of two large pink and white camoes, perfectly matched and set in silver rings. More appropriate for cold winter nights are the wraps of velvet and broadcloth, of which a large variety is shown in the fashionable shops. Such wraps seem best suited to the matron and dowager, but even women of tender years affect these heavier cloaks. A majority of these wraps are built on simple lines, the material falling in straight, stately lines from neck to feet.

AVOID HARMFUL DRUGS

Many Cathartics Tend to Cause Injury to the Bowels

If you are subject to constipation, you should avoid strong drugs and cathartics. They only give temporary relief and their reaction is harmful and sometimes more annoying than constipation. They in no way effect a cure and their tendency is to weaken the already weak organs with which they come in contact.

We honestly believe that we have the best constipation treatment ever devised. Our faith in it is so strong that we sell it on the positive guarantee that it shall not cost the user a cent if it does not give entire satisfaction and completely remedy constipation. This preparation is called Rexall Orderlies. These are prompt, soothing and most effective in action. They are made of a recent chemical discovery. Their principal ingredient is odorless, tasteless and colorless. Combined with other well known ingredients, long established for their usefulness in the treatment of constipation, it forms a tablet which is eaten just like candy. They may be taken at any time, either day or night, without fear of their causing any inconvenience whatever. They do not grip, purge nor cause nausea. They act without causing any pain or excessive looseness of the bowels. They are ideal for children, weak, delicate persons and aged people as well as for the most hearty person.

They come in two size packages, 12 tablets 10 cents, 36 tablets 25 cents. Remember you can obtain them only at our store—The Rexall Store, The Smith Drug Co.

fur being added to carry out the muff idea. All the important openings are making displays of fur and velvet turbans, with fascinating little neckpieces and huge shirred muffs to match.

Winter hats, small and large, will be made out of satin, silk and the smooth folds so popular last year, but of velvets, beaver, satin beaver and fur. Any of these materials may be fashioned into charming toques and turbans. The silk and fur beavers may be blocked and may appear in large form for dress occasion. Many of the small hats are made of two or three kinds of fur. Ermine affords a beautiful line of white for any rich fur turban. Sealskin is lovely with a trim of Russian sable. Frequently a trim of ermine is used to form a contrast against the somber tints of other furs. Lynx is quite popular and will be used in combination with colored velvets.

Broadcloth Coat Suit

A pretty coat suit is this of blue broadcloth, showing the new long cut, with its distinct waist line—the popular model for winter street wear. The old-fashioned narrow skirt of velvet with an insert of the fashionable moire in black. The cutaway at the front and the deep slash at the sides are trimmed with graduated pieces of contrasting material—a trimming both effective and smart. These pieces are used again on the closely-fitting sleeves. The skirt has the fitted knee flounce. With this costume was worn a large hat of black, with blue wings, in the tone of the gown.

DAILY PUBLICITY ADVOCATED.

Newspapers Are Best Means of Reaching Greatest Numbers.
P. G. Craner, president of the Craner-Krasselt Company, advertising agents of Milwaukee, in an address on "Advertising" before the Wisconsin Retail Furniture Dealers' Association recently made some statements about newspaper advertising that are worthy of attention.

He said that the newspapers were the best means of reaching the greatest number of people most effectively at the least cost.

"Newspapers," he added, "are read by practically every person who is in the market to buy anything. They carry great prestige. Newspaper advertising, apart entirely from the fact that it pays for itself in sales and increased business, creates good will, which alone is worth the cost of the publicity. Money spent in newspaper space improves the old maxim: 'You cannot eat your pudding and have it, too.' The buyer of publicity, even after he has paid the publisher, still retains in the form of results all the money that his advertising has cost him. In other words, successful newspaper advertising practically costs really nothing, and, at the same time, makes the man who uses the newspaper a leader in his line."

Read the ads and save money.

Long, Lithe Lines that Express Suppleness and Grace

THERE! We have given you the story of Fall Corset styles in one brief sentence. You, madam, who are posted in fashion matters will realize its truth at once. You will likewise see that Gossard Model "F" carries out Fashion's dictum with remarkable faithfulness.

THE Gossard CORSETS "They Lace In Front"

These are the corsets which are built according to the tenets of the "New School" of corset design. Through "New School" methods every seam and gore is placed with scientific precision—every bone is located with the accuracy that obtains in adjusting the balance wheel of a fine watch.

Every Gossard Corset is boned with Electrobone, a boning which in resiliency and strength excels whalebone. The basis of Electrobone is high carbon clock-spring steel, which is the only quality considered adequate to mould the figure to the exquisite Gossard character in its least taint for street wear or for use when a trip must be taken in a public conveyance.

One of the most striking features lines. And the only quality that can be rust-proofed without destroying its flexibility.

But in commending the Gossard Corset to you, we particularly call your attention to the fact that, in the Gossard we are showing not merely a model for every figure, but a "long model" for women of every height and build. This is an innovation that you will appreciate.

The Gossard is the American modification of the original French front-lacing corset. Its constructive principle is: that beauty and hygiene should have their closest union in a corset that essays perfection. The beautiful sculptured back and the adjustable front-lacing features of the Gossard are the product of this principle.

It is the only corset that has the unqualified approval of physicians. Instead of injurious pressure, it affords support for the organs, compels a correct standing position and carriage, and imparts that poise which never fails to elicit the admiration of the beholder. The proof of the corset is in the Gossard.

We extend a cordial invitation to every lady in this vicinity to visit our store this week and see E. B. Diltz, the Company's expert corsetiere, who has been trained in accordance with the New School of corset design and construction. She will be pleased to show you the corset which is exactly adapted for YOUR figure.

ON SONS OF GOD

REV. CHRISTY TELLS OF RICH
GIFTS OF FATHER.

FIERY WRATH DESCENDS

On Sons of Disobedient and Prosperity and Wealth Do Not Bring Everlasting Life and Happiness."As far as Heaven is from Hell is the feeling of one who realizes that he is a Son of God distant from the feeling of him who is still in doubt as to what his relations are with the Father in Heaven."These were the words of Rev. W.
P. Christy of St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran church in his sermon last evening. His text was taken from the first chapter of the first epistle of St. John in the New Testament."There is a danger," said Rev. Mr.
Christy, "of our becoming lukewarm in our spiritual life. There is a danger of our becoming careless and wicked, carried away by the spirit of business and pleasure.""Our Father likes to see us in the relation to Him as of a child. If we are born of the Word we stand in relation to Him as a child.""It is a wonderful love that makes children of God out of the children of this world. He makes the exponent of His will and a means of grace for those who have turned against Him. It is a wonderful love that has planted faith in our story books and which in His estimation is of great value but which the world thinks of little value.""We have in the faith in us that power which so enables us to live so that, though we live in the world, still we are separated from it.""It is hard to comprehend the relation of a Son of God. We cannot describe it. We can only feel it and impart that feeling to others. We do know though of its origin and its power.""He who can appreciate the meaning of the term, Son of God, should be thankful that God has received him into His own household. God is satisfied that we should not be to Him as slaves and servants and that we
to the position of sons and children of God. That love which he bestows upon us should become part of our own nature. Christ is the manifestation of God's love. Through Christ and by faith we become the children of God and God is also taken up in us.""To be the child of God is not a gift direct but the work of God passing through the different stages of His work throughout this world.""God bestows upon his children not one particular blessing, but a number of them. His gift is the crown of all things: Love itself, the gift which gives us power to do and accomplish all other things.""We find that the world does not appreciate these gifts. Notwithstanding the opposition of the world, we are children of God, although the glory is somewhat imperfect and concealed for the time being. But we are like the heir not yet come to maturity. He may have all the possessions of his father, but they are in the hands of an administrator. So it is with us at the present time.""The aim and end of life is read in the Assumption. What we know is that we shall be like Him.
We often bother ourselves conjecturing as to what shall be our duties and our position in the world to come, but like as the Father receives the Son as He will they be received into that class who have followed his teachings. He that is faithful in the least of these things shall become the ruler over many things. The power is to be given to the Sons of God.""It is impossible to trace the glory of the Sonship up to the glory which comes with it. It is almost impossible to picture one shade of that great glory which shall be revealed to us.
We can see a picture of that glory
when we see the love of God manifested.""On the other hand, we witness the sorrow and destruction which comes to those who have not followed Christ when we see the righteous wrath of God manifested on the sons of the disobedient. Even under the cover of prosperity and the mantle of wealth there is lacking in them that which is given only to the Sons of God, that feeling of peace and comfort in God."

SERIOUS PROBLEMS

CONFRONT COACHES

Saturday's Game with Indiana Shows
Many Defects in Wisconsin's Playing.[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., Oct. 25.—Four big problems are set for solution by coaches of University of Wisconsin football team before substantial hope can be entertained of defeating Indiana here on November 13 and making a creditable showing against Chicago in what is played may be the western intercollegiate championship game on Marshall field on November 20. The game with Northwestern university at Evanston next Saturday is not doped as any occasion for badger apprehensions, for Indiana is obviously far and away stronger in every department than the Methodists of Evanston, and Wisconsin managed to squeeze through the Hoosier game without defeat. But Coach Tom Barry declared himself satisfied with winning over Indiana even though Shel-
don's fellows scored a drop-kick goal
from the field. It is because of indifferent and shabby work against Indiana that Barry must focus for the big contest against Minnesota and Chicago, and four main problems to which he will now devote himself are teaching his men to tackle, finding a man who can span the ball back to Captain Wiley for punting, teaching
the ends to follow up punts without
overrunning, and to teach the backs
carrying the ball to pick their openings.Against Indiana Wisconsin failed
disastrously in the tackling department, Gill was always good for ten yards or
more after he had been grazed by the first badger assailant, and the other Hoosiers, mainly Padlock and Chris-tewart, were repeatedly dived for andmissed by Wisconsin tacklers, or managed to wriggle away after they had been grabbed and should have been stopped. If Johnson were to play in the Minnesota game instead of being laid up with a broken leg, he could be depended upon to make monkeys of
the badgers in this respect, and it is fearfully remarked that Pat Hoge and Wardlaw of Chicago must be handled most effectively than Gill of Indiana was treated Saturday or
there is no guessing how many touchdowns Chicago will make.Wisconsin is positively without a
man who can span the ball back to Wiley for punting with a fair degree
of accuracy. Arpin, the badger center, was weeks ago known to be practically worthless in this art, and so Coach Barry had Hoge come in from Iowa to pass for punts in the Indiana game. This was not only applied the opponents of when a punt was
to be made instead of a fake kick, but Hoge did not get more than five passes
properly into the hands of Wiley.
Twice such failures resulted in blocked kicks and at other times Wiley had
to jump up for the ball or bend forward to take it near the ground with
the result that he was hurried and unable to get the punt away with power,
such an incident markedly contributed to Indiana's gain from field,
which would have won the game had
it not been for the good fortune the badger captain had in intercepting a forward pass meant for Indiana's right end, Roberts, and running 70
yards for Wisconsin's only touchdown.Wisconsin also failed in the work of her ends. Both Jimmy Dean, the badger offering for all-weather honors,
and Harker overran the ball repeatedly after punts, with the result that they could not get near and the result of the punt was allowed to advance until stopped by Boyle, Hoge
and the backs. With fast men and clever substitutes running back
kicks in the Minnesota and Chicago
games unless of the ends to fill their
punts will amount to disaster, and effective attention will be given to them and Harker in the next three weeks.Coach Barry also feels that more tackling must be shown by the
backs in the line game than was apparent against Indiana and in this respection Captain Wiley himself was
the chief offender. "And," added Wiley, "my coaches fairly well, as I did
also Harker and Jimmy Harker, who had
his first chance after Moll had refused from quarterback between the badgers and Hoge was shifted from right half to quarter. Wiley, however,
provided close to his interference, as
was done in the old days, and when
his interference was snatched into Wiley also was stopped. He was resolved to leave his interference and
out in closer but seemed unable to do
it."Confidence is felt that Wisconsin
can make effective development of the
forward pass, and there will be attempted to perfect an angle reception of trick plays which are hoped
to work against Minnesota and the Hoosiers.

Clever Play, But

POORLY PRODUCED

Clyde Fitch's "Girls" Clever Skill—

Cast Not Adequate to the Production.

There is not much of a plot but a whole lot of human nature in Clyde Fitch's three-act comedy, "Girls,"
which was presented rather indiffer-
ently at the Myers Theatre Saturday
afternoon and evening. The comedy, which is described as a three-act comedy of pure fun, is a jocular, gossamer
effort, written in Clyde Fitch's best
style, and is a fitting climax to that author's record of fifty plays.Comedy is this play's right long and among the two hundred characters that he has created none are
more true to life than the three girls
around whom the play is built.
Throughout the entire three acts he
is satirizing in a gentle but scorching
manner the ideal of the so-called
bachelor club, but his characterization
of the principals is so true to life and
his insight into the eternal feminine
is so keen that no one who thinks
can find fault with him. It is his perfecting of studio life and the little
points of stage business that go to make the scenes real, that make the
play a success.The play concerns itself with three
girls, one of whom, a real man-hater,
dominates the other two, one of whom
frankly confesses her liking for certain members of the stronger sex. In the first act all three are seen in their
room, engaged in those entirely feminine occupations that only Fitch could comprehensively and minutely describe, drying their handkerchiefs on
the mirror, and, in fact, practicing
all those economies incident to studio
life. All the time they are gossiping cheerfully in the brightest fashion. It is in this scene that the author shows
his art in feminine characterization and sly humor. Then, after sluggingCaffeine—in coffee—is a direct poison to the nerve centres of many highly organized persons.It produces all sorts of
disorder, from stomach
troubles, palpitation of the
heart, kidney affection,
etc., up to more intricate
nervous troubles, such as paralysis.The way to keep well is
to leave off coffee and use Postum, which is a direct rebuilder of the nerve centres.

ning over Indiana even though Shel-
don's fellows scored a drop-kick goal
from the field. It is because of in-
different and shabby work against Indiana that Barry must focus for the
big contest against Minnesota and
Chicago, and four main problems to
which he will now devote himself are
teaching his men to tackle, finding a
man who can span the ball back to Captain Wiley for punting, teaching
the ends to follow up punts without
overrunning, and to teach the backs
carrying the ball to pick their openings.Against Indiana Wisconsin failed
disastrously in the tackling department,
Gill was always good for ten yards or
more after he had been grazed by the
first badger assailant, and the other Hoosiers, mainly Padlock and Chris-
tewart, were repeatedly dived for andmissed by Wisconsin tacklers, or managed to wriggle away after they had
been grabbed and should have been stopped. If Johnson were to play in
the Minnesota game instead of being
laid up with a broken leg, he could be
depended upon to make monkeys of
the badgers in this respect, and it is
fearfully remarked that Pat Hoge and Wardlaw of Chicago must be hand-
led most effectively than Gill of Indiana was treated Saturday or
there is no guessing how many touchdowns Chicago will make.Wisconsin is positively without a
man who can span the ball back to Wiley for punting with a fair degree
of accuracy. Arpin, the badger center, was weeks ago known to be practically worthless in this art, and so Coach Barry had Hoge come in from Iowa to pass for punts in the Indiana game. This was not only applied the opponents of when a punt was
to be made instead of a fake kick, but Hoge did not get more than five passes
properly into the hands of Wiley.
Twice such failures resulted in blocked
kicks and at other times Wiley had
to jump up for the ball or bend forward to take it near the ground with
the result that he was hurried and un-
able to get the punt away with power,
such an incident markedly contributed to Indiana's gain from field,
which would have won the game had
it not been for the good fortune the
badger captain had in intercepting a
forward pass meant for Indiana's
right end, Roberts, and running 70
yards for Wisconsin's only touchdown.Wisconsin also failed in the work
of her ends. Both Jimmy Dean, the
badger offering for all-weather honors,
and Harker overran the ball repeatedly after punts, with the result that
they could not get near and the result of the punt was allowed to
advance until stopped by Boyle, Hoge
and the backs. With fast men and
clever substitutes running back
kicks in the Minnesota and Chicago
games unless of the ends to fill their
punts will amount to disaster, and effective attention will be given to them
and Harker in the next three weeks.Coach Barry also feels that more
tackling must be shown by the
backs in the line game than was apparent against Indiana and in this re-
spection Captain Wiley himself was
the chief offender. "And," added
Wiley, "my coaches fairly well, as I did
also Harker and Jimmy Harker, who had
his first chance after Moll had refused from quarterback between the
badgers and Hoge was shifted from right half to quarter. Wiley, however,
provided close to his interference, as
was done in the old days, and when
his interference was snatched into Wiley also was stopped. He was resolved to leave his interference and
out in closer but seemed unable to do
it."Confidence is felt that Wisconsin
can make effective development of the
forward pass, and there will be attempted to perfect an angle reception of trick plays which are hoped
to work against Minnesota and the Hoosiers.

Clever Play, But

Clyde Fitch's "Girls" Clever Skill—

Cast Not Adequate to the Production.

There is not much of a plot but a whole lot of human nature in Clyde Fitch's three-act comedy, "Girls,"
which was presented rather indiffer-
ently at the Myers Theatre Saturday
afternoon and evening. The comedy,
which is described as a three-act comedy of pure fun, is a jocular, gossamer
effort, written in Clyde Fitch's best
style, and is a fitting climax to that
author's record of fifty plays.Comedy is this play's right long
and among the two hundred characters that he has created none are
more true to life than the three girls
around whom the play is built.
Throughout the entire three acts he
is satirizing in a gentle but scorching
manner the ideal of the so-called
bachelor club, but his characterization
of the principals is so true to life and
his insight into the eternal feminine
is so keen that no one who thinks
can find fault with him. It is his perfecting of studio life and the little
points of stage business that go to
make the scenes real, that make the
play a success.The play concerns itself with three
girls, one of whom, a real man-hater,
dominates the other two, one of whom
frankly confesses her liking for certain members of the stronger sex. In
the first act all three are seen in their
room, engaged in those entirely feminine occupations that only Fitch could
comprehensively and minutely describe, drying their handkerchiefs on
the mirror, and, in fact, practicing
all those economies incident to studio
life. All the time they are gossiping
cheerfully in the brightest fashion. It
is in this scene that the author shows
his art in feminine characterization
and sly humor. Then, after sluggingCaffeine—in coffee—is a direct poison to the nerve
centres of many highly organized persons.It produces all sorts of
disorder, from stomach
troubles, palpitation of the
heart, kidney affection,
etc., up to more intricate
nervous troubles, such as
paralysis.The way to keep well is
to leave off coffee and use
Postum, which is a direct
rebuilder of the nerve centres.

"There's a Reason."

Sure and well defined improvement in health will follow this course, as can easily be proven by any person who values health enough to make a trial.No Wedding Bells for Me," the three go to bed, one taking her turn rebel-lously in the big arm chair. The whole scene is so true to life that it never fails to touch a chord in the hearts of those who have ever been in the same situation.After establishing his background the author brings on the disturbing element—man—and the plot begins to develop. It is sufficient to say that after the junior partner of Sprague and Holt has made his unconventional entrance into the bed chamber of the three girl bachelors, via a wind blind, the beginning of the end is seen. When the final curtain falls all three mini-matters are happily mated for life or on the way.It was unfortunate that the cast of the play was not worthy of the play itself. Like all heroines, in the play itself, the three girls, the three Phoebes, were not very convincing. Many of the scenes were not very convincing, which they were not. Many in the audience would have been delighted if Imogene Courtland had moderated her tones. One of the characters best liked by the audience, was the theatrical manager, Mervin, and he did not appear on the stage at all.SURPRISE FOR REV.

"Figuratively speaking, I presume?"

"I always thought you were a figurative speaker," said Smith.

Captain Williams had produced his pipe, filled it and lighted it without asking permission.

"Smith says I'm close, I'm not," he declared. "To me business is business. If I've got money nobody gives it to me. I earned what I earned, and then I made that extra more."

"You sure ain't given it no vacation, captain," commented his valet, intent dryly.

"And that's right," affirmed Mrs. Harris with some heat. "I believe in men getting money. Mr. Harris was one of those soft hearted men who never made the best of his opportunities—always trying to be fair and square with other men, and what thanks did he get?"

"Mother, please!" remonstrated Emma.

"It's true," went on her parent. "If he hadn't been that way, Emma, do you suppose you'd be here doing your own work?"

"Mother, I insist—you must not!" interrupted Beth. "Emma, you don't deserve this kind of a life."

"But have I complained?" demanded Mrs. Brooks desperately. "Why do you say such things?"

"Because I've got myself to think of," snapped her mother. "You're wasting yourself—tied up to the house all the time—and everybody—all my friends know just how you're fixed. You're never invited anywhere any more."

"Completely forgotten," said Beth. Brooks, who had told himself in silence and unobserved, stood in the hall irresolutely, watching them and listening to the conversation.

"Please, don't," entreated Emma, greatly distressed. "It's my affair, and besides, before people."

"You must say the captain's almost one of the family since your father died," put in her mother. "I know you should never have married Joe—that he couldn't take care of you the way he ought."

"It's too late now," said Beth, struggling her shoulders. "Captain, don't you think Emma should have more?"

"Well, Mrs. Brooks must know her own mind," he replied. "Your father when he worked for me always had a way of his own. But it does seem as if she should at least have a hired girl and more than four rooms to a flat, but—"

Brooks strode into the room, held with passion, glared to a white heat of fury, reckless of everything, murder in his heart, and, hurling his hat to the door, faced the company.

"It does seem so, does it?" he fairly blazed, going over to his employer. "I'm glad you think so. And why haven't she? Will you tell me that? Speak! Will you tell me that? I'll tell you why you slave drivers!"

Mrs. Harris and Beth sat speechless and pale, but Smith rose.

"Steady, Joe, boy!" he admonished. Emma had hurried to her husband and grasped his arm.

"Oh, Joe, don't!" she implored. "You don't!"

He flung her roughly from him.

"Let me alone!" he shouted and turned to Williams again, quivering with rage. "Do you know why she hasn't?" he continued. "Well, I'll tell you all. It's because this man ain't on the square. He began by cheating and murdering men who worked for him about his rotten trading ships."

"Please—please, captain—for my sake," she pleaded.

"I've lived a hard life with hard people. Since the day I shipped before on the north Pacific sealer I learned what a cut and a blow was; what rotten grub, the scum and all them things meant, and I knew that the only thing between them things and comfort, decency and the respect of folks was money. I started to get money, and maybe I have been a little hard—just a little hard."

"No one would call you easy, captain," agreed Smith.

"Anyway, Mrs. Brooks," continued Williams, "Joe keeps his job, and it ain't going to make a bit of difference between us."

"Not the least?" she asked, with wonder.

"Certainly not," said Mrs. Harris. "Joe," declared Beth indignantly, "was absurd. He quite bores me."

Smith smiled at her and injected a good deal of irony into his tone as he said:

"Yes, you looked as if something was wrong, Beth."

The captain approached Mrs. Brooks with an attempt at gallantry that was elephantine and grotesque and seized her hand, which she suffered to remain limply in his clasp.

"Well, Mrs. Brooks," he said, "it's all squared up you will come riding with us, won't you?"

"Not tonight. You will excuse me," she replied.

"Certainly," he assured her, warmly shaking her hand as though it were a pump handle. "Good night."

"Good night," she answered.

Then she advanced to receive the parting kisses of her mother and sister, which were a good deal less cordial than those with which they had greeted her on their arrival. Their osculatory reserves seemed to have been kept in cold storage during the interval.

The fact that in the engrossing ceremony of leave taking with Mrs. Brooks everybody forgot to be polite enough to say good night to Smith did not ruffle his equanimity in the least.

CHAPTER VI.

WHEN the door had closed behind the visitors Mrs. Brooks and Smith sat down and gazed at each other in silence for some minutes.

"Well?" exclaimed Emma, interrogatively, at last.

"Well," he replied, "between you and me, Joe came as near getting skinned alive as any one I ever saw."

"It was terrible!"

"It was terribly true. You saved him."

"I know."

"The captain must like you. I never did think he could like anybody."

"I hate him," she declared, with a grimace of disgust. "Ugh, what a beast!"

Smith reflected.

"Maybe, and maybe not," he mused. "I can't just make him out."

At this juncture the front door opened and Brooks entered.

"I saw them drive off," he said, dropping into a chair. "I hope they will stay away in future. That mother and sister of yours make me tired! I can't stand for them, and what's more, I won't. They'd drive a saint to drink, and I'm no saint and don't purpose to be, either."

His wife began to reproach him for his attack upon Captain Williams and for his general ill humor during the evening, but he cut her short sharply: "We won't talk about that! Not a word, you understand? Not from you or any one else. That's final!"

"Very well," it dropped," she said and, angry at last in turn, rose and went to her room.

Indifferently he watched her go, then turned to Smith.

"Got anything to smoke, Jimmy?" he demanded.

"No," he replied, fumbling in his pockets, "as usual, I'm just out, but I'll run around to the corner store and get some cigars."

Left alone, Brooks began to give way to the uneasiness and apprehension that had followed upon his scene with Captain Williams.

"I wonder if Williams will fire me," he muttered. "If he doesn't it's on account of Emma. He acted as if he'd go a long way for Emma."

He was anxious to know what had happened after his brusque departure. He went into the bedroom and found his wife in tears.

"Don't cry, Emma," he said soothingly, going to her and taking her in his arms. "I didn't mean to hurt your feelings. I know I've got a fierce growl on tonight, but I can't help it. So would you have one if you'd had to put up with what I have today?"

Mrs. Brooks was one of those sweet natured women who could not walk for more than five minutes if they tried. It needed but his caresses and apparent contrition to dispel her resentment.

"You certainly have had cause to worry, dear," she assented.

"After what's happened tonight I'll have to hunt another job," he said. "But I don't care. I'm glad I told the beast what I thought of him. Some day somebody'll tell him what they think of him and plug him, too, as sure as he's born."

"You'll not have to hunt for another job yet awhile," she told him. "The captain said he would overlook it and that it wouldn't make any difference."

Her husband looked at her in astonishment, half incredulous.

"He said that?"

"Yes, and I'm glad it's turned out as it has, for how would I manage if you were out of work just now goodness knows. I don't!"

"Just how did he put it?"

"He said he was mighty sorry for what had occurred, that he knew he had been hard at times and that as far as your place and we were concerned there would be no change."

Brooks' relief showed in his face.

"Well, that knocks me," he commented. "Nobody else ever backed up against him and got off scot free. I can't understand it. Did your mother put in a word for me?"

"No."

QUESTIONS DANE'S STATEMENT.

Commander Peary Says Rasmussen's Report Lacks Authority.

Washington, Oct. 25.—Commander Robert E. Peary has telegraphed to friends here that it was impossible for Knud Rasmussen, the Danish explorer, to have seen any member of the Cook party, and that information which Rasmussen received therefore was not first hand. "That the story told in Rasmussen's report of his impressions of Dr. Cook, as made public by Mrs. Rasmussen at Copenhagen, lacks authority is the substance of Peary's message."

The dispatch came from Peary a day or two ago and it has been scrupulously kept secret.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 25.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, who lectured here, announced that Prof. L. S. Dyche of the University of Kansas has been definitely decided upon as one of the members of his forthcoming Mount McKinley expedition, having accepted the offer. Dr. Cook states that he had also decided upon several other members of the expedition, though he did not care to announce their names at present. There will be only five or six in the party, he said.

CHURCH FOSTERED THE STAGE.

New York Divine Says the Former Is the Mother of the Latter.

New York, Oct. 25.—The church is the mother of the stage; the mystery and morality plays produced under the auspices of the church in the middle ages, were the forerunners of the drama of today; an actor in a pulpit means no more than a clergyman in a divorce court. We have both men in a divorce court. I recognize these things in our civilization, I regret to say, but it is unfair to judge a whole class, whether of actors or clergymen, by one sorry specimen."

These are the views of Rev. Charles F. Alden, pastor of the Fifth Avenue Baptist church, on two interesting professions, which he contends are growing closer to each other every year.

"Some of the kindest, the best, the most generous people I have ever known are in the theatrical profession," he said.

Jackson of Aberdeen, and Josephine Burke, the little daughter of Congressman Charles Burke of Pierre, chairman of the Indian affairs committee, will be eligible to draw the names and they will continue all week. There are 81,000 applicants registered.

ADVOCATES A REVISION OF THE TEN COMMANDMENTS

Prof. Carver of Harvard Asserts Some of Them Have Outgrown Their Usefulness.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 25.—Coming on the heels of the announcement of the "new religion" propagated by President Emeritus Eliot of Harvard university, is the statement promulgated by Thomas Nixon Carver, professor of economics in the same institution, that certain of the Ten Commandments should be changed or supplemented, that some of them have outgrown their usefulness and should be revised to meet the needs of the modern conditions existing today.

While this suggestion has nothing in common with Dr. Eliot's views, it advocates the remodeling of the tenets of the old religion to cover the vices that have sprung up during the life of the New Testament. This comes from a man who has spent a lifetime in the study of political economy and sociology rather than in the pursuit of philosophy.

Prof. Carver believes that as a matter of economics, towards the social uplifting of America and its people, that drinking should stand in the same light and under the same Divine injunction as blasphemy. He goes even farther and says that the commandments, "Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord, thy God, in vain" could be laid aside with little or no detriment to public morals to make way for a new precept, "Thou shalt not drink to drunkenness or bawdler."

Notwithstanding the professor declares that the utterance of the name of God as it occurs today has lost its old-time significance and intent; it is not intended to be profane or blasphemous, but is the outlet of a limited vocabulary and a lack of good taste.

Drinking, on the other hand, he says, is a practical injury to the value of a man as an economic unit and as a factor in the inter-related activities caused by the modernized inventive life of today.

"I do not declare by any means," said Prof. Carver, "that the Ten Commandments are preposterous. What I have said is that the commandments were rules of conduct fitted for control of the people at the time. But changing conditions require changed rules of conduct and so today I think that a commandment against drunkenness is needed."

A man who has made considerable money in selling books given a thorough examination of the same as follows: 1st. A bargain (or what appears to be one). 2nd. A hurry up call. 3rd. Enough money to tell the story in a broadcast way. It is useless to add that he is constantly looking for new schemes, new customers, and does not do a repeat business.

AFTER SUFFERING TEN YEARS

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

MARTIN, N. J.—I feel that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has given me my new life.

I suffered for ten years with serious female troubles, inflammation, ulceration, indigestion, nervousness, and could not sleep. Doctors gave me up, as they said my troubles were chronic. I was in despair, and did not care whether I lived or died, when I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; so I began to take it, and am well again and relieved of all my suffering."

Mrs. George J. Jones, Box 40, Marlton, N. J.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and today holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials are on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., from women who have been cured from almost every form of female complaints, inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodical pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration. Every suffering woman owes it to herself to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

"Please—please, captain—for my sake," she pleaded.

"I've lived a hard life with hard people. Since the day I shipped before on the north Pacific sealer I learned what a cut and a blow was; what rotten grub, the scum and all them things meant, and I knew that the only thing between them things and comfort, decency and the respect of folks was money. I started to get money, and maybe I have been a little hard—just a little hard."

"No one would call you easy, captain," agreed Smith.

"Anyway, Mrs. Brooks," continued Williams, "Joe keeps his job, and it ain't going to make a bit of difference between us."

"Not the least?" she asked, with wonder.

"Certainly not," said Mrs. Harris. "Joe," declared Beth indignantly, "was absurd. He quite bores me."

Smith smiled at her and injected a good deal of irony into his tone as he said:

"Yes, you looked as if something was wrong, Beth."

The captain approached Mrs. Brooks with an attempt at gallantry that was elephantine and grotesque and seized her hand, which she suffered to remain limply in his clasp.

"Well, Mrs. Brooks," he said, "it's all squared up you will come riding with us, won't you?"

Forty Years Ago

Jamesville Daily Gazette, October 25, 1868.—The Meeting This Evening.—There will be a grand turnout this evening at the Court Room to hear the speeches of Governor Fairchild and Senator Howe. The Glee Club will be present and give some of their inspiring songs.

The Funeral Of E. H. Woodward.—The funeral of Mr. E. H. Woodward was quite largely attended this morning, the remains being escorted to the depot by a considerable number of his friends, on foot.

Jottings.—One of the events to transpire in the city this week is a dancing party of the Lufkin order. Music by the band from Chicago you know.

Ice formed on the river above the dam, last night, from bank to bank. Fear is entertained that the potatoes which were in the ground last night, were frozen. We hope not.

A thirty man, not thoroughly posted on the modern inventions, recently made a desperate attempt to draw a glass of water from one of Babcock's fire extinguishers, which was kept ready for use on the counter of one of our hotels. The raging fire of his throat was instantly quenched.

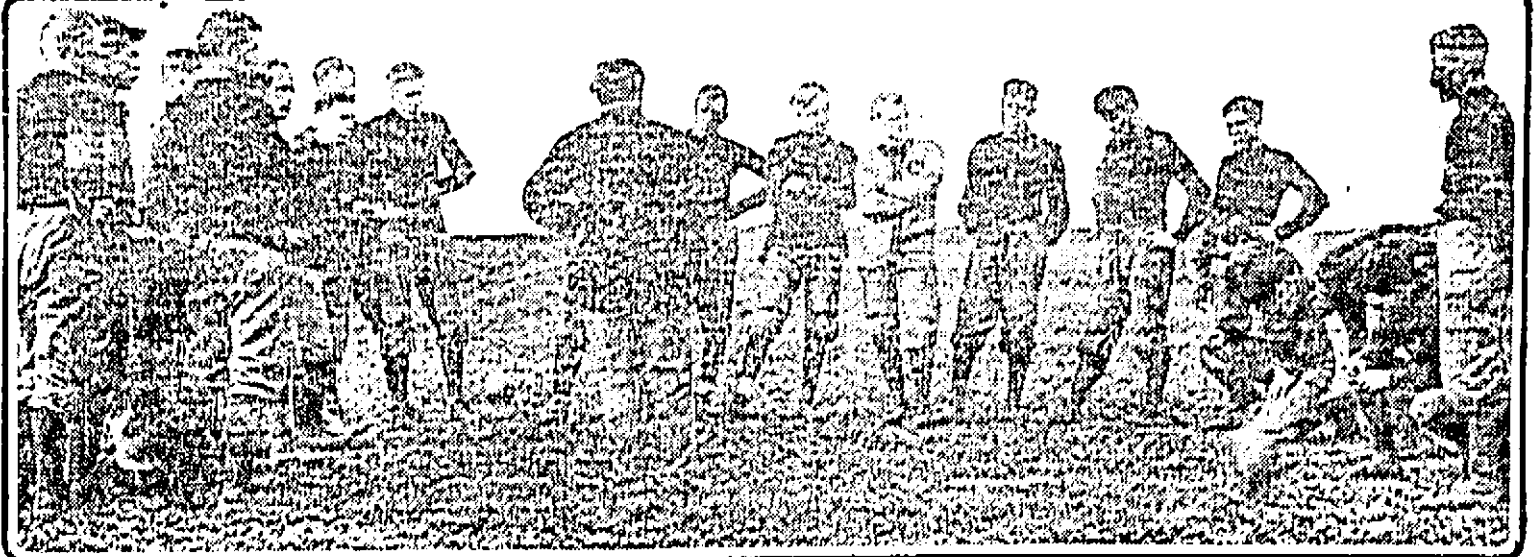

The thermometer showed ten degrees above zero this morning. We might add, however, that it was left out all night and had no overcoat on. Sol Hudson is severely ill.

The Defolt Journal says that last week was a gay one for weddings in Beloit. Several young gentlemen in this city are determined to go to that place immediately. We hope that they will not be hovering around here any longer if they want to marry, but go at once.

There are several cases of scarlet fever among the pupils of the Second Ward school.

The New Organ.—The Congregational society may well feel eminently pleased with the organ which they are now putting into their church. It is one of the finest instruments in the State both in respect to excellence and general appearance. He has the pleasure this morning of looking at the complicated mechanism and hearing its tones which are of exceeding purity and sweetness. It contains about 1500 metal pipes, and is finished in the best style of workmanship. There are two banks of keys, one for the church proper and one for the Sabbath school room. In the hands of a skillful player this fine instrument will produce sounds as sweet as to lift the soul of the worshiper up to the contemplation of the bright and beautiful things portrayed as belonging to the better land.

CHICAGO FOOTBALL SQUAD LISTENING TO A HEART-TO-HEART TALK FROM COACH STAGG.

From present indications Chicago is to hold up her end in the championship eleven of the west this season, at any rate the Maroons will make an awful struggle to defend their honors. There are many veterans on the team, but it is a likely bunch that Stagg now has in practice and in preparation for the gruelling battles that are to come. There are few more successful coaches in the country than A. A. Stagg, himself a former star at Yale. He has a system of his own and by him are originated the most original plays that have been devised in football, especially under the new rules. Stagg springs a surprise by sending his candidates into scrimmage the third night out, but there wasn't a bump reported at the finish of the strenuous work.

The greatest task before him is the selection of a quarterback to succeed Steffen. Chicago quarterbacks have been of such grade in the past six years that they have been given all American rating on two occasions. This with Walter Eckersall and Steffen are the stars that confront Stagg can be imagined. But it looks like Pat Page to succeed these two great leaders. The best end in the west was Page last year. Before Steffen took the quarterback position he was a clever half. Now followers of the gridiron game are asking themselves if Page will develop just as strongly.

Heretofore opposing elements have found Chicago's attack almost unstoppable. This year the Stagg system promises to be just as good, but in addition the defense looks to be much stronger. The early games will serve to weed out all irregularities and it looks like a very strong Chicago eleven to enter in the big games of the late season.

changes and the people change with them.

Mr. Fettinger declared that the newspaper is beyond question the best of all advertising mediums, not only because it facilitates the dissemination of information to the public at the least possible cost and in the speediest manner, but also for many other reasons.

"Perhaps the most cogent reasons why the newspaper should be patronized above all other mediums is the fact that the press is so helpful in the upbuilding of the city, in the furthering of its enterprises, and because the city is so apt to be judged by its newspapers, and its business men by the advertising that appears in the newspapers.

"We should not count merely the earnings that come direct from our advertising investments, but the asset constantly being created for every business institution and every property-holder in the city through the newspaper's activities. Every dollar put into the newspaper advertising strengthens the newspapers and enables the publishers to give to the readers, practically without cost to the readers, the wonderful purveyors of news and molders of public opinion for which the country is famous."

THE MILLION NAVAL TARGET, RAM KATAKHDIN.

Philadelphia.—Some very important ordnance experiments are to be conducted by the United States navy department in the near future as the result of the authorization by the last congress of an expenditure of $100,000 for secret work in this department. First among the objects sought in the forthcoming tests will be a demonstration as to whether the armor with which our battleships are now sheathed will successfully resist projectiles hurled from modern high power guns at battle ranges. Heretofore very few of the tests conducted by this or any other government have been under the exact conditions of naval warfare. Consequently it will be deemed a distinct advance in research work if shots can be sent against armor supported in exactly the same manner that it would be if in place on the hull of a battleship.

ADVERTISING VALUE.

Mr. Theo. Fettinger, Adv. Mgr. for Hahn & Co., Newark, N. J., in a recent address on advertising, said, "It is a positive creative force, and the world would lose much without it."

"It multiplies human wants," Mr. Fettinger asserted; "it intensifies human desires, makes fashions, encourages constant change, leads people to furnish them to better taste, and to dress better, to build better homes, to make them more comfortable and sanitary."

"Advertising is one of the simplest, yet one of the most complex, factors in the promotion of business. It is an essential giving publicity to the object you wish to promote, or the thing or service you have for sale. Just how this publicity can best be secured in, and always will be, a problem, because of the varying conditions in which man finds himself as times

A Selling Campaign Should Be Started Right

—every detail should be given thoughtful consideration and planned before a dollar is invested in the purchase of advertising space. Conscientious advice and assistance should be obtained from people who are capable of thoroughly analyzing your selling problems and who will give personal attention to your particular case. It's only the man in the pilot house who has the outlook and the data to steer the ship. The kind of advertising that makes every dollar spent an investment instead of an expense is the kind that has a perfect selling plan back of it. If your product has merit there is a way to sell it.

If newspaper advertising is what you need you will be glad to work with us. If not, we will tell you so at once.

A Gentleman.

A man that's clean inside and out; who neither looks up to the rich nor down on the poor; who can lose without squealing and who can win without bragging; who is considerate of women, children and old people; who is too brave to lie, too generous to cheat, and who takes his share of the world and lets other people have theirs.—New York Sun.

Princeton's head coach, Jim McCormick.

Princeton football destined this season to be kept watch of by Coach McCormick, upon whom falls the task of bringing the Tigers out of the slump of recent years. It is a large task ahead of McCormick but he has the support of the student body and they believe he can succeed. When McCormick was playing with the Tigers he was one of the stars of the gridiron. Although very light, he was a wonderful fullback. He was given his football training under the new rules and under such conditions is well suited for the task of coaching the Tigers again a light eleven that must depend on speed.

The early work of the Tigers is being closely watched. They have not shown form that would make even their most enthusiastic supporters come out with a statement that they would beat Yale, but the Princeton spirit comes to the front strongly and to beat the Blue is the aim of the entire squad.
